Spring 2011

Principles of Programming Languages

Instructor

- Name: Scot Drysdale
- Office: 248 Sudikoff Laboratory
- Phone: 646-2101
- E-mail: scot *at* cs *dot* dartmouth *dot* edu
- Office Hours:
  - Daily 1:45-2:45, and by appointment.
  - If I'm not in the middle of something important, I'll be glad to answer questions at other times as well so feel free to stop by. I'm usually in my office from 11am to 5pm, when I don't have meetings or other classes.

Teaching Assistant

none.

Course

- Meets: Period 12 (MWF 12:30 - 1:35)
- Room: TBA
- X-hour: Tuesday 1:00 - 1:50

Leave your x-hour open, we may use it during the term to replace classes when I am out of town, to go over homework solutions, or for special topics.

Text

- Concepts in Programming Languages
by John Mitchell
Available at the Dartmouth Bookstore and Wheelock Books.

Grades

The final grade will be determined based on weekly problem sets (written and programming) a midterm, a final exam, and a project involving Python.

- Homeworks: 50%
- Midterm: 20%
- Final: 20%
- Project: 10%

The midterm will be 7:00 on May 9 in 006 Kemeney.
The final will be 3:00 on June 5.

Late Homeworks

Homework is due at class time on the due date. Late homework will loose 20% if handed in by the next class, 40% if handed in by the class following that, and will not be accepted later.

Honor Code

- All work submitted for credit must be your own.
- You may discuss the homework problems with your classmates and the instructor. You must acknowledge the people with whom you discussed your work, and you must write up your own solutions. Any written sources used (apart from the text) must also be acknowledged.
- Exam problems may only be discussed with the instructor.
- Please ask if you have any questions about the honor code as it applies to CS 68.

Students with Disabilities

I encourage students with disabilities, including "invisible" disabilities such as chronic diseases and learning disabilities, to discuss with me any appropriate accommodations that I might make on their behalf.
